MANAGER'S REPORT

Networking in a small town

One of the primary objectives for our business events is to cultivate a sense of community and camaraderie among local businesses.

We're happy to see our monthly Business & Beers strengthening B2B connections.

By coming together at networking events entrepreneurs forge meaningful connections and establish a support system. Not only providing encouragement but sharing valuable resources and advice.

In close-knit communities, personal recommendations carry significant weight. By fostering strong relationships with fellow business owners, you can establish powerful word-of-mouth marketing, find suppliers and open doors to collaborative ventures, partnerships, cross-promotion and joint marketing initiatives.

By staying connected with fellow business owners, industry associations, and community organisations, businesses can stay ahead of the curve.

Our Business and Beers is also a great way to hear about local events, trends, and developments that may impact your operations.

As a business association, we host a range of events to foster a vibrant business community.

By facilitating networking opportunities, providing resources and support, and promoting a culture of collaboration and community engagement, we work to ensure that our members have the tools and connections they need to succeed. Together, we harness the power of networking to strengthen our small-town economy and create a more prosperous future for all.

See you at our next business and beers!

— News From The PBA

This month we recap our recent events and Easter competition, share beautification and safety projects and announce more upcoming business events and School Holidays In The Square.

EVENTS

COFFEE WITH A COP

We had a great attendance at our last Coffee with A Cop held at Townmouse on 19 March. We were joined by our community Constables, Sergeant Wayne Paxton and members of the new retail crime unit including the lead, Sergeant Moody.

We also heard from the Community Patrol NZ who desperately need volunteers (3-4 hours per month) to help keep Pukekohe safe.

KAI FRANKLIN CHEF'S TABLE

We've sold out of our specialty dining experience Kai Franklin Chef's Table. It's great to see the strong interest in this event and we hope to bring more of these to Pukekohe.

The event is a collaboration with The Kitchen Project, Franklin Local Board and Eke Panuku Development Auckland and is hosted on Monday 8 April.

It will feature a four-course dinner from local chefs Eugene Hamilton, Holly Jansen, Veronica McDougall and Mark Woodward, in partnership with local growers and producers.

These local chefs also ran a workshop for Pukekohe High School Hospitality Students who will assist in serving on the night.

TOWN UPDATES

MURAL

We helped facilitate a beautiful new mural on Devon Lane that references Pukekohe's horse racing history. Thank you to Pukekohe Park and Orizon Tyres for partnering for this project.

ROUNDAABOUT CROSSINGS

The final roundabout upgrades will occur in mid April. The King-Edinburgh Roundabout and Seddon-King-Queen-West Roundabout will have new zebra crossings where current raised tables exist. This work will be completed within two months and access to all businesses will remain.

FLOWERBED UPGRADES

Our mainstreet flowerbeds are getting a make-over! New plants will be planted and maintained to add a pop of colour to our town centre!

NEW TOILET BLOCK

At long last, the new toilets at Seddon Park have opened, adorned with a beautiful nature mural.

SEEK NZ EMPLOYMENT REPORT

Findings show that new and advertised job positions are declining, and applications per job are continuing to rise. Construction and Industrial sectors have experienced the greatest declines, whereas Healthcare and Medical jobs have increased 6% from January.

WIN

EASTER GIVEAWAY

Congratulations to the lucky winners who took away eight great prizes from CoinMax, Franklin Hospice Op-Shop, MW Insurance, Kitchen Inspirations and Pik n Mix Lollies for Easter colouring competition!

BUSINESS FEATURE

Artisan Boutique's Hidden Gems

This month, we explore the beautiful treasures and colourful craft supplies found in Artisan Boutique on King Street.

Owner of Artisan Boutique, Anjana Susane started her business from a love of jewellery making, which catapulted her entrepreneurial journey to own her own store and supply other businesses.

While studying science at University, Anjana came across some jewellery making books in the library and her decision to give it a go started her long-term hobby.

As a STEM student, she'd never pursued something so creative or artistic before and surprised herself by how much she enjoyed it.

She began making jewellery for herself, her friends and family. To further fund this hobby, she began selling some homemade items online. When she started sourcing bulk supplies from overseas, she began holding stalls at markets and expos.

After a few years of running her business from home, she made the decision to pursue this business instead of her science background. Seeking more human connection than working from home allowed, she took a risk opening a physical store – thanks to the understanding of landlords who allowed a short-term lease.

She operated from a Papakura store for a few years before moving to her Pukekohe location which has been running for seven years and has expanded massively from the original craft and jewellery offering.

“Often we hear the words Aladdins Cave or Treasure Trove to describe our store!”

Artisan Boutique really does have a wide variety of products – selling a little bit of everything! They supply jewellery making and craft products, crystals, books, ornaments, statues, water features, mosaic lamps, painting, wall art, gifts, homewares, clothing and so much more.

They also have a small jewellery repair service and a wholesale side of their business. They source and import a lot of products direct from suppliers and from their travels, focusing on items that are a little bit different to other shops.

“When we began importing large quantities of stock it made sense to (offer) wholesale,” says Susane.

Artisan Boutique offer wholesale pricing on their jewellery making supplies to other stores and crafters who sell their creations at markets or are starting up their own small business.

Not only does this help other businesses starting in the same position as Artisan Boutique, but the businesses continual change and diversification has refined their niche and enabled them to survive the test of time and Covid.

The unique products and crafting goods have attracted loyal customers, both locals and people from further afield that are looking for unique pieces or tools for home projects.

You can shop a lot of their offering straight from their website – but we suggest popping in when you have plenty of time on your hands to browse!

Looking from the outside, you don't truly get an idea of the hidden gems Artisan Boutique has on offer.

Anjana has done an amazing job of curating this beautiful store, and each time you slowly walk through you'll see more of the treasures they have on offer.

Anjana and the two other shop assistants are also happy to help if you're looking for something specific or wholesale options.

Interview with Anjana Susane From Artisan Boutique

HOW LONG HAS ARTISAN BOUTIQUE BEEN OPERATING?

We've been operating for 15 years and had our store in Pukekohe for seven years.

WHAT PRODUCTS ARE POPULAR CURRENTLY?

Our “Make Your Own Name Bracelet” is always popular during the holidays. Many grandparents bring their grandchildren in as a fun activity and unique treat for kids.

WHAT DO YOU LIKE ABOUT PUKEKOHE?

I love the community here in Pukekohe. Many customers simply pop in for a chat and life update. Businesses are also so supportive of each other. We're frequently sent customers from other shops.

HOW DO YOU CHOOSE PRODUCTS TO SELL?

The store is filled with things I love – which makes it a great place for me to work. We also take on feedback from customers to stock what they need. Some of our best-selling products are from customer requests so we always do our best to listen to their needs.

— Give it a whirl

With Pukekohe Service Print

We headed to the heart of Pukekohe's industrial area to give it a whirl at the one stop printing and packaging shop, Pukekohe Service Print.

Company directors Jason White and Tim Kempton have over 50 years of printing experience across New Zealand, Australia and England.

Their premises hosts their skilled team and a huge range of equipment including the latest digital printing technologies, a huge Heidelberg Speedmaster for Offset Printing, an original Diecutter machine, Gluer Vega (for folding and gluing packaging) and a Horizon Stitchliner to bind booklets.

The friendly team at Pukekohe Service Print see us at least once a month for our Loop printing – but they are also a great point of call for our other marketing materials, booklets, business cards, etc.

They are set up to produce packaging, cartons, and printing for New Zealand companies including local luxury knitwear company, Lothlorian.

Although some of their major clients keep them busy, they always squeeze in on our last minute jobs to meet our deadlines.

As we tour their facilities and try our hand at what they do, we can see just how capable their business is.

We start at their 5 colour offset printer which expands many metres across their workshop.

Pukekohe Service Print use metal plates to transfer inks onto a wide range of paper types and sizes in the offset printing process.

Once the metal plate is ready, it's capable of 8,000 impressions an hour making it particularly good for jobs with higher quantities like the 40,000 units of gloss packaging for Columbine.

Our measly 800 copies of The Loop fly through this machine, always ready for delivery at the first of the month.

For short-run production jobs, their digital printing offers convenience and fast delivery.

Their staple machine automatically binds our Loop Magazine, but they also offer glue and saddle stitch options.

Pukekohe Service Print are using a high-quality binding option for Counties Energy's 100 years celebration booklet. We are so impressed with the professional look and crystal clear imagery.

Next, we head to their other workshop next door which houses lots of their equipment for packaging materials.

We were put to work using their original Heidelberg Diecutter, a vintage looking machine that cuts patterns out.

Taking stacks of the packaging that we just saw printing, we curl the paper to put a little bit of air between layers and stack them into the machine. This machine then cuts and scores the lines of the layout.

Then, we take the pile and manually press out the cut-outs and stack them into piles. Instead of counting how many thousands were in each stack, they are weighed to work out the quantities.

This process alone feels like it could take hours if not days to complete but their team greatly enjoy their work, and have refined their production line.

Tim then shows us how they add metallic accents on labels using their Foiler machine. This has all sorts of uses and uplifting branding materials such as the blue metallic kiwi or silver alpaca on each tag.

The final step in today's work is putting together the cut-out packaging design. Luckily, the Gluer Vega machine does this, so we don't have to fold and glue the card by hand.

It goes into a conveying machine flat, gets folded down at the first stage, then the pressing table glues and holds the unit together to give the glue time to dry by the time it reaches the end of the conveyor belt.

We are so impressed with the huge range of high-quality products that this small team produces locally. If you're looking for anything from business cards and books to bespoke packaging, get in touch with Pukekohe Service Print.

GOLD STANDARD CRIME REPORTING

Our local Community Constable, Keven Greasley has created some great resources for businesses to help prevent future crime.

As business owners, it's important to report any crimes and suspicious behaviour to our local police to help foster security for ourselves and our customers.

Submitting thorough reports is the only way that we can help ensure greater police presence and provide sufficient information for the courts to prosecute offenders.

The more information you can provide, the more likely action can be taken and future crimes can be prevented.

Keven Greasley has given us an example of a gold standard report, a checklist and a template for staff to be aware of what details to note when crime or suspicious activity occurs.

Checklist

Ensure to note these details down at the time it occurs, especially if submitting at a later time.

1. Detailed report of the incident in chronological order

- Time of entry
- Description of offender(s)*
- Detailed narrative of event
- Time of exit
- Direction of travel
- Vehicle details

2. Statement required from

- Witness(es)*
- Reporting staff

3. CCTV footage

- Entry
- Exit
- Movements in store (to match itemised receipts below)
- Still photo

4. Itemised receipt of items stolen

- Individual values
- Total value of all items
- Could be by way of till printout

Provide all the below with the initial report to enable Police to take action in a timelier manner. Any missing components could cause significant delay.

Witnesses

In most prosecutions statements witnesses are required as evidence, therefore it is critical that witnesses are identified in reports.

A witness statement template is available at pukekohe.org.nz/report-crime/

Please ensure to include full names, roles, contact details and hours available to be contacted or visited in store for all staff involved in the incident.

If staff need to move out of the way of the offender as they flee because staff felt they would be hurt, please explain this.

If staff are verbally threatened in any way explain this and identify the staff member. This person will also need to provide a statement.

CCTV

To streamline processes, please ensure footage is saved and uploaded as soon as practicable.

If possible, include one still image of the offender/s.

The staff that uploads footage are considered witnesses and need to have their details recorded on the report.

Stolen Items

Items stolen must be detailed by item (eg. colour, size, quantity), the retail price of each item and the total cost of all items, including a receipt of all items so Police can lay correct charges.

In circumstances where a trolley load of items is stolen, at the bare minimum, Police need to know at least some of the items that were in that trolley. Reporting "1x whole trolley of goods" is of no evidential value.

Offender

If more than one offender is involved refer to them as offender 1, offender 2 ... or Male offender / Female offender in the narrative. Then describe them in the description section.

If there is any level of violence or communication from the offender, please describe this in the narrative as and when it happens.

Description Guide

You can use the below guide to understand the details that help Police when describing an offender.
